THIS VOLUME was prepared and edited by authority of the State of New Jersey, at the request of the New Jersey Historical Society.

Preface

1136431

THIS, THE TENTH VOLUME in the series of Abstracts of New Jersey Wills, includes wills, administrations and letters of guardianship filed or recorded in the Office of the Secretary of State at Trenton during the period from January 1, 1801 through December 31, 1805, and comprises 2,833 such abstracts.

It was the practice until February 1, 1804 to send wills to the Register of the Prerogative Court (later the Secretary of State's office) to be recorded, no matter where or before whom the wills were proved. By an Act passed November 9, 1803, a new system was instituted. This statute provided that the Surrogate General should, at the expense of the State, furnish the several surrogates with seals bearing one uniform device. Up to this time it had been the rule to record all wills in the office of the Register of the Prerogative Court, but this Act stipulated that wills, letters of guardianship, and all letters testamentary, and administrations granted and issued by the surrogate, as well as all inventories received by him, should be recorded by him in his office, these records to have the same force, validity and effect as the like records in the registry of the Prerogative Office. The original wills were to be transmitted quarterly to the Register of the Prerogative Court to be filed in his office. This continues to be the usual practice, but the original jurisdiction of the Ordinary has remained.

This Act also vested the surrogates with the powers of the Ordinary in the appointment of guardians of persons under twenty-one years, subject to an appeal to the Prerogative Court. By an Act passed December 1, 1804, surrogates were required to keep their books, records and papers in county offices where such were provided for their use.

From the foregoing it will be noted that while subsequent to February 1, 1804, all original documents relating to wills, administrations, inventories, guardianships, etc., were filed in the Office of the Secretary of State in Trenton, they are recorded in the surrogates' offices in their respective counties. To facilitate locating recordings in the offices of the various surrogates, the name of the county, as well as the liber and page numbers (where they appear) have been added to the abstracts. In the absence of such data, it will be understood that they do not appear on the original documents, but will be found recorded either in the county mentioned in the body of the abstract, or in the county named in an explanatory note.

Prior to the preparation of material for volume eight of this series, abstracts had been made at various times and by different persons. While each of those so engaged was versed in the several departments of New Jersey history, geography, and genealogy, and was familiar with the procedure followed in the preparing and recording of testaments, the data abstracted were assembled more or less in the order in which they appeared in the original documents. Beginning with volume eight, published in 1942, Mr. Edward H. Sterling, of Trenton, N. J., took over the work of abstracting and devised a uniform plan of arranging and presenting the relevant facts. This departure having met with general approval, he has followed the same procedure in volumes nine and ten, and also added the occasional genealogical notes.

Where original documents were filed merely as papers, but not recorded, as happened with many testaments and intestacies, as well as all inventories, prenuptial agreements and other such documents, the number of the file case in which these papers may be found in the office of the Secretary of State has been added by Mr. Sterling in all instances where such papers are extant.

Due to inconsistencies in the spelling of testators' names or those of their kinsmen, in the body of wills, it has been presumed that the spelling of the testator's signature is correct, and that particular spelling has been used at the beginning of each abstract. Because all abstracts begin with the name of the testator or intestate and are listed in strict alphabetical order, these names are not included in the Index of the Names of Persons, but all names mentioned in the body of an abstract have been indexed. All place names, with the exception of counties in New Jersey, appear in a separate Index following the Index of Names of Persons. These include the names of townships, cities, villages, geographical designations such as mountains, mines, islands, roads, rivers, streams, lakes, ponds and swamps.

When we consider that in early days it was not unusual that wills were prepared by clergymen, doctors, surveyors, justices of the peace, merchants, neighbors, and even by unschooled testators themselves, it is not surprising that many are found to be poorly assembled, illegibly written, and abounding in ungrammatical phraseology and phonetic spelling. Under these circumstances it is idle to hope, notwithstanding the meticulous care attending every step in the compiling and editing of this work, that the volume is entirely free from errors. However, since works of this kind are used chiefly by historians, genealogists, lawyers, title searchers and others conversant with the many difficulties involved in deciphering early manuscripts, it is hoped that any inaccuracies will be attributed to illegibility rather than to lack of care on the part of the abstractor or editor.

[* The Sterling store located in the City of Burlington was well known throughout the State. Major James Sterling (b. Coleraine, Ireland, Jan. 6, 1742; d. Burlington City, Jan. 6, 1818) may be said to have been New Jersey's first Merchant Prince, in that he amassed (by merchandise trade) what was considered a large fortune in the early days of the 19th Century; besides realty holdings in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the Inventory of his Personal Estate, shows the sum of $236,999.72 (mostly in bonds and notes). In the Inventories of Personal Estates recorded in the "Abstracts of Wills," it may be of some interest to note, that up to the year 1805, there were very few Personal Estates that ranged in value between 50 and 100 thousand dollars, neither were there many between 25 and 50 thousand dollars, in fact a person with a Personal Estate of 10 thousand dollars, in these early days, was considered fairly "Well-to-do," as in the case of Mr. Hancock. (The great Industrial and Financial Millionaires did not appear until a much later date.) Mr. Sterling was much interested in, and contributed largely to, the "Methodist Society"; hence the reference to him in this will of John Hancock.

May 1, 1789, John Hollinshead gave power of attorney to Charles Pettit, of Philadelphia to sell said certificate. Note by Caleb Lloyd, Surrogate: "This will I was requested to take proof of and transmit it to the Office to be recorded. The Executors therein named are all dead, and the persons who brought it forward did not wish to administer." (Year 1803.) File 8550 M.

[As the will of Robert James is dated Sept. 19, 1774 and the first of the endorsements or receipts for legacies is also dated Sept. 19, 1774, it is evident that the testator having made his will proceeded to act as his own executor, or proceeded to liquidate his estate, during his lifetime. As the last of these receipts "as received from my father, Robert James," is dated June 9, 1777 and the following receipts are all dated Mar. 12, 1778, it would appear that the testator died sometime between the 2 said dates, or in the year 1778, and the will was presented to the Surrogate 25 years later for recording.

"History of Old Tennent," (Symmes) pp. 214-215, gives records of 2 of the daughters of Robert James. My wife [name not given] hath an estate of her own, which she has received the advantage and profits from, and if that will not maintain her, the children will support and maintain her equally amongst them. Whereas, my late father, John Kinsey, of the City of Philadelphia, did die intestate leaving myself his eldest son, and sons, Charles, Philip and Thomas, and as I as his eldest son became entitled unto ⅖ parts of his estate in Pennsylvania and all his real estate in New Jersey and my brothers to only ⅕ part of his estate in Pennsylvania, and my brother Charles being my next brother, died about the age of 21 intestate and without issue, and by whose death I became entitled to the fifth part of my late father's estate belonging to the said Charles, my will is that the share of Charles be considered as part of my father's estate and be divided as if my father had died leaving only 3 children, in which case I shall be entitled unto one moiety or half part of all the real estate and personal estate of my said father and my brothers, Philip and Thomas ¼ part each. To effect such purpose, I give and devise unto my brothers, Philip and Thomas, ½ part of a tract of land at or near Pequess in Sussex Co., one other moiety of a tract of land at Assanpink in Middlesex Co.; also one moiety of the share of my brother, Charles' estate in Pennsylvania; provided my brother, Philip, settles with my estate a note for £1,700, which I lent him, said note signed, "Moore and Kinsey," and to also account for lots sold by him to James Drinker, in order to pay his English debts; also my brother, Thomas, to pay in like manner any balance that may be due me. Sons, John, James and Charles, my library and law books to be divided between them. Servant woman, Rose, $6 per annum, during her life. INDEXES

I. INDEX OF NAMES OF PERSONS
II. INDEX OF PLACE-NAMES

Index of Names of Persons

NOTE.—The names of testators, intestate persons or wards, printed in heavy type in the preceding text, are not repeated in this Index, as a rule. Where maiden names can be ascertained from the body of the will, they are included.

Where surnames in common use today, or at least with well-known spellings, are unusually or curiously used in the text, the current modern spelling is substituted in this Index, to facilitate reference. An exception is made where proper spelling is uncertain. To a lesser degree the same rule has been applied to Christian names.
